

Friday Answers

Thair were sum tall, scatterd acacia trees on the plains.

There were some tall, scattered acacias trees on the plains.

(Tricky words and ed rule)

animals stood bigh the muddy watering hole.

Animals stood by the muddy watering hole.

(Capital letters at the start of sentences and tricky word)

The sun vos blazin lighk fire

The sun was blazing like fire.

(ing suffix, tricky words and missing full stop)

The grassee playns were vast and Flat.

The grassy plains were vast and flat.

(y = ee sound at the end of words, ay/ai choice, normally ai goes in the middle of words and random capital letter)

the sweet acacia trees were as tall as a towir.

The sweet acacia trees were as tall as a tower.

(Capital letters at the start of sentences, wrong ir/ur/er choice, normally er goes at the end of words)

what a scorching day it was

What a scorching day it was!

(It was an exclamation sentence as it starts with what or how.)

For question 2 you could have had lots of different answers! Here are some possibilities but you may have thought of many others:

The hot sun – blazing, scorching, burning, boiling, blistering

The blue sky – sapphire, bright blue, cloudless,

The yellow lion – tawny, golden, fair, blonde

The dry grass – withered, wilted, arid

A scary lion – frightening, terrifying, petrifying, fierce, majestic,

Some cute elephants – endearing, enchanting, adorable, lovable ...